

King's Voices

The mixed voice choir of
King's College, Cambridge

King's Voices is the mixed-voice choir of King's College, Cambridge and was founded in October 1997 under the direction of Dr John Butt (Director of Studies for Music at King's, 1997-2001) to give the women of King's the opportunity to contribute vocally to the musical life of the College. Our current Director is Simon Brown, Director of Music at King's College School.

King's Voices are available to make your night one to remember by performing just for you. We sing a variety of music, any of which can be performed at your function. We normally split our pieces up into 10-15 minutes sets to give you and your guest the opportunity to enjoy the exceptional food and service as well as the world-class entertainment!
