Attending Chapel services

We warmly invite members of the public and the wider University to join us for our choral services. We enjoy the diversity of the congregations that gather day by day and are glad to welcome people of all faiths and none. Most services last at least three quarters of an hour, some longer, up to an hour and a quarter.

Most days, anything up to an hour before a service begins, a queue forms at the main entrance to College. Half an hour before the service, the College gate is opened and the queue moves forward. A quarter of an hour before the service, people are admitted to the Chapel itself. Five minutes before the service begins, the main gate of College is closed and, to ensure a calm and timely start to all our services, any who arrive later are not admitted.

Inside College there are three queues. The queue alongside the Chapel is the main one and is for members of the public. Members of the University are invited to queue on the north side of the Chapel. Only members and staff of King's College and School, and choir families, are invited to queue in front of the Gibbs' Building.

When you come to a service, please bear the following four points in mind:

- We ask you not to bring any bag that is larger than airline hand-luggage size.
- We ask that you take a seat in the Ante-chapel if you cannot commit to remaining for the whole service.
- We do not allow recording or photography of any kind in services and strongly request that phones be turned off.
- We regret that there are no public toilet facilities available in College.

If you or anyone attending with you has any additional needs that we might be able to help you with, or if you are coming in a group of ten or more people and wish to be seated together, or if you have any other questions about attending, please contact the Chapel Manager, whose details are printed on page 2.

The initials KC in this booklet are used to designate membership of King's College.

Welcome

Light and sound are the two things in this Chapel that cannot be held. Everything else here can be touched. The stone is cold and solid under the hand; the wood of the stalls has been worn smooth by five centuries of use. But the light that falls through these windows and the music that rises from the choir are given rather than grasped. They arrive, they fill the space, and they pass. We can only stand within them and receive them.

That is not a small thing to say about a building. It is close to what the Gospel says about God.

The windows teach by pairing. A scene from the Hebrew scriptures is set against its answering moment in the life of Christ, so that the eye is asked to do more than look. It is asked to hold two things together and to see the first in the light of the second. This is not decoration added to doctrine. It is doctrine, worked in glass, and it can be read only by someone willing to let one image interpret another.

The music does the same work in time rather than in space. A phrase is announced and then taken up by a second voice at another pitch, and what returns is not repetition but answer. Here too the meaning lies in the relation and not in either part alone. What the glass sets side by side for the eye, the polyphony lays one upon another for the ear, and neither can be understood by attending to a single thing at a time.

So the two arts make the same argument twice over. Faith comes by hearing, St Paul tells the Romans, while St John writes of the Word made flesh that we beheld his glory. Neither light nor sound will serve as proof of anything. They are the conditions under which something may be given to us that we could not have devised for ourselves, and that is precisely how the Gospel comes.

Which is why little is asked of anyone who comes through this door. The light does not wait until we are ready before it falls. The singing does not begin only once the congregation has been found worthy to hear it. Both are already underway, and to come to worship here is to be let into something that was never waiting on us.

So come, whether you belong to this College or are a stranger to it. The same light falls on both, and the same music is sung for both.

You are welcome here.

The Revd Dr Hueston Finlay
The Dean

Organ recitals

This term we will host six organ recitals on Sundays at 2.15 pm, directly before Evensong. All details of performers and their programmes can be found towards the back of this booklet. Admission is free, and all are welcome both to the recital and to the service that follows.

Music

Following the summer break, the Choir returns to Chapel in our usual pattern of weekly services.

In November, the annual Requiem for Remembrance Sunday to commemorate the faithful departed will be sung to the setting by Fauré on Sunday 8 November at 5.30 pm. Advent Sunday falls on 29 November, and our annual Procession at 6.00 pm will begin the journey towards Christmas. There will be two concerts this term, on 28 October and 6 November. All details, and box-office information, may be found on pages 35 and 36 of this booklet.

King's Voices sings weekly on Mondays, under the direction of Owen Elsley, Assistant Director of Music; they will also sing on Wednesday 21 October when King's College Choir are performing a concert at the Wigmore Hall and Tuesday 27 October during the School half-term holiday.

The membership of King's College Choir and King's Voices changes every year. If you would like to know more about being a member of either ensemble, please contact me by email to begin an informal exploration.
